

Anne Gregerson

Anne Gregerson earned a BFA in sculpture from Brigham Young University, and has received numerous awards and participated in several regional and national museum and group exhibitions. Her work has been published in Lark Books, Entrada Journal, Sculptura Pursuit Magazine and Deseret News. Working with clay as her primary medium, Anne focuses on the human figure, specifically female figures, interacting with various animals, birds, plants and other symbolic elements . Her ideas are about relationships with the natural world, with other people and with different parts of herself.
