

Toni Doilney

Toni Doilney's paintings are visceral responses to the idyllic, rural American landscape. Her abstractions create an emotional map; a personal realism that transcends mere duplication of a scene. The paintings are related to patchwork and needlepoint crafts, paying homage to Kandinsky, Klee and other modernists who were influenced by peasant art.